Cambridge Impact Factors rise 15%*

Cambridge Journals show an average increase in Impact Factor of 15.1% from 2004 to 2005. This compares to an average increase of only 6.9% among rival journals in the same subject categories. Cambridge journals are therefore outperforming their aggregated competitors by a factor of more than two. Another reason why more and more researchers are choosing to publish with Cambridge.

Welcome!

It is my pleasure to introduce you to the outstanding journals available from Cambridge University Press. This catalogue aims to bring you clear and succinct information about the wide range of Cambridge journals including those that are new to the list.

2006 has been a remarkable year for Cambridge Journals because we successfully launched the Journal of Fluid Mechanics Digital Archive, containing forty years of fully referenced and refereed content from over two hundred thousand pages. To find out more visit:

www.journals.cambridge.org/JFM. We have also welcomed fifteen journals formerly published by CABI – making a total of eighteen new journals – to Cambridge University Press in 2007. The journals of the Nutrition Society including the British Journal of Nutrition have moved to Cambridge University Press opening up a whole new subject area for our department. Find out more at [www.nutrition society.org](http://www.nutrition society.org). The Journal of Asian Studies – the biggest international title in its field – will also be published by Cambridge on behalf of the Association for Asian Studies beginning in 2007 and complements our wider list of Asian Studies journals.

Additionally, fifteen of our Science, Technology and Medicine (STM) journals are now available through our new open access initiative: Cambridge Open Option. Anyone with internet access will be able to read the open access articles without charge. For further details about Cambridge Open Option please contact Gavin Swanson: gswanson@cambridge.org.

The continued expansion of our journals list is being mirrored by a programme of long-term investment in our journals business so that our continued commitment to the academic community, and in particular our Society partners and customers, can be fulfilled both now and into the foreseeable future.

Chinese Journal of Agricultural Biotechnology

Editor-in-Chief
R. Hull | John Innes Centre, UK

Chinese Journal of Agricultural Biotechnology brings cutting-edge Chinese research to an international audience. The journal takes the very best papers published in Chinese in the Journal of Agricultural Biotechnology, translates them and makes them available to the international scientific community. Chinese Journal of Agricultural Biotechnology covers subjects such as biotechnology (cellular, chromosomal, enzymatic, genetic, and fermentation engineering) of agricultural plants, animals, and relevant microorganisms (including nitrogen fixing bacteria and pathogens), and related biochemistry and structural analysis.

Experimental Agriculture

Editor
Mike K. V. Carr | Crop and Water Management Systems, UK

With a focus on the tropical and sub-tropical regions of the world, Experimental Agriculture publishes the results of original research on field, plantation and herbage crops grown for food or feed, or for industrial purposes, and on farming systems, including livestock and people. It reports experimental work designed to explain how crops respond to the environment in biological and physical terms, and on the social and economic issues that may influence the uptake of the results of research by policy makers and farmers. The journal also publishes accounts and critical discussions of new quantitative and qualitative methods in agricultural research, and of contemporary issues arising in countries where agricultural production needs to develop rapidly. There is a regular book review section and occasional, often invited, reviews of research.

Renewable Agriculture and Food Systems

Editor-in-Chief
J.W. Doran | University of Nebraska, USA

Renewable Agriculture and Food Systems (formerly American Journal of Alternative Agriculture) is a multi-disciplinary journal which focuses on the science that underpins economically, environmentally, and socially sustainable approaches to agriculture and food production. The journal publishes original research and review articles on the economic, ecological, and environmental impacts of agriculture; the effective use of renewable resources and biodiversity in agro-ecosystems; and the technological and sociological implications of sustainable food systems. It also contains a discussion forum, which presents lively discussions on new and provocative topics.

The Journal of Agricultural Science

Senior Editor (Animal papers)

Julian Wiseman | University of Nottingham, UK

Senior Editor (Crops & Soils papers)

Robert E. L. Naylor | University of Aberdeen, UK

The Journal of Agricultural Science publishes papers concerned with the advance of agriculture and the use of land resources throughout the world. It publishes original scientific work related to strategic and applied studies in all aspects of agricultural science, including agronomy; crop physiology, crop protection, breeding, genetics and pathology; soil science; animal nutrition, physiology and genetics; organic and sustainable agricultural systems; and the mathematical and statistical methods used in experimentation and data analysis. The journal also publishes book reviews, invited short reviews of scientific topics of current agricultural relevance, and letters.

animal

Editor-in-Chief

Michel Doreau | INRA, France

Editors

John Oldham | SAC, Edinburgh, UK

Kris Sejrsen | Danish Institute of Agricultural Sciences, Denmark

Published for The Animal Consortium

animal is a completely new entity that seeks to attract the best research in animal biology and animal systems from across the spectrum of the agricultural, biomedical, and environmental sciences; it is the central element in an exciting collaboration between the British Society of Animal Science (BSAS), Institut National de la Recherche Agronomique (INRA) and the European Federation for Animal Science (EAAP) and represents a merging of three scientific journals: Animal Science, Animal Research, Reproduction, Nutrition, Development.

animal will publish original cutting-edge research, 'hot' topics and horizon-scanning reviews on animal-related aspects of the life sciences at the molecular, cellular, organ, whole animal and production system levels. The main subject areas include: animal breeding and genetics; nutrition; physiology and functional biology of systems; behaviour, health and welfare; livestock farming systems and environmental impact; product quality, human health and well-being.

Animal Health Research Reviews

Editor-in-Chief

C. Gyles | University of Guelph, Canada

Published in collaboration with Conference of Research Workers in Animal Diseases

Animal Health Research Reviews provides an international forum for the publication of reviews and commentaries on all aspects of animal health. Papers include in-depth analyses and broader overviews of all facets of health and science in both domestic and wild animals. Major subject areas include physiology and pharmacology, parasitology, bacteriology, food and environmental safety, epidemiology and virology. The journal will be of interest to researchers involved in animal health, parasitologists, food safety experts and academics interested in all aspects of animal production and welfare.

Equine and Comparative Exercise Physiology

The International Journal of Animal Exercise Physiology, Biomechanics and Nutrition

Editor-in-Chief

D. Marlin | University of Bristol, UK

Equine and Comparative Exercise Physiology is the only journal specifically dealing with the latest research in equine exercise physiology. It offers an understanding of the physiological, nutritional and biochemical parameters that determine levels of performance and athletic achievement, through both primary and review material. The core subjects include exercise physiology, biomechanics and gait (including the effect of riders), nutrition and biochemistry, injury and rehabilitation, psychology and behaviour, and breeding and genetics.

World's Poultry Science Journal

Editor

David G. Martin, Gloucestershire, UK

Published on behalf of World's Poultry Science Association

World's Poultry Science Journal provides authoritative reviews in poultry science and an international forum for the exchange and dissemination of information including research, education and industry organisation. Each issue includes poultry industry related news, regional reports on global developments in poultry, reports from specialist scientific working groups, book reviews, association news and a calendar of forthcoming events. Coverage includes breeding, nutrition, welfare, husbandry, production systems, processing, product development, physiology, egg and meat quality, industry structure, economics and education. The journal is of interest to academics, researchers, students, extension workers and commercial poultry producers.

Archaeology and Anthropology

Ancient Mesoamerica

Editor

William R. Fowler | Vanderbilt University, USA

Ancient Mesoamerica is the international forum for the method, theory, substance and interpretation of Mesoamerican archaeology, art history and ethnohistory. The journal publishes papers chiefly concerned with the Pre-Columbian archaeology of the Mesoamerican region, but also features articles from other disciplines including ethnohistory, historical archaeology and ethnoarchaeology. Topics covered include the origins of agriculture, the economic base of city states and empires, political organisation from the Formative through the Early Colonial periods, the development and function of early writing, and the use of iconography to reconstruct ancient religious beliefs and practices.

Archaeological Dialogues

Editors

Ton Derks | Free University, Amsterdam, The Netherlands

Michael Dietler | University of Chicago, USA

Fokke Gerritsen | Netherlands Institute in Turkey,
Istanbul, Turkey

Archaeology is undergoing rapid changes in terms of its conceptual framework and its place in contemporary society. In this challenging intellectual climate, Archaeological Dialogues has become one of the leading journals for debating innovative issues in archaeology. Rooted in European archaeology, it now serves the international academic community for discussing the theories and practices of archaeology today. True to its name, debate takes a central place in Archaeological Dialogues.

Cambridge Archaeological Journal

Editor

John Robb | University of Cambridge, UK

Published for the McDonald Institute for Archaeological Research

Cambridge Archaeological Journal is the leading international journal for cognitive and symbolic archaeology. It provides a forum for innovative, descriptive and theoretical archaeological research, paying particular attention to the role and development of human intellectual abilities and symbolic beliefs and practices.

Specific topics covered in recent issues include: the use of cultural neurophenomenology for the understanding of Maya religious belief, agency and the individual, new approaches to rock art and shamanism, the significance of prehistoric monuments, ritual behaviour on Pacific Islands, and body metamorphosis in prehistoric boulder artworks. In addition to major articles and shorter notes, Cambridge Archaeological Journal includes review features on significant recent books. The journal has a distinguished editorial board that includes British, American and Australian scholars of international repute.

Architecture

arq: Architectural Research Quarterly

Editor

Richard Weston | Cardiff University, UK

arq acts as an international forum for practitioners and academics by publishing cutting-edge work covering all aspects of architectural endeavour. Generously illustrated throughout, arq is edited with busy practitioners and academics in mind. Contents include building design, urbanism, history, theory, environmental design, construction, materials, information technology, and practice. Other features include interviews, occasional reports, lively letters pages, book reviews and an end feature, Insight. Reviews of significant buildings are published at length and in a detail matched today by few other architectural journals. Elegantly designed, inspirational and often provocative, arq is essential reading (and Continuing Professional Development) for practitioners in industry and consultancy as well as for academic researchers.

Bulletin of the School of Oriental and African Studies

Editor

G. R. Hawting | School of Oriental and African Studies, UK

Published for the School of Oriental and African Studies

Bulletin of the School of Oriental and African Studies (BSOAS) is an international journal publishing research and reviews in the arts, humanities, law and languages relating to Africa and Asia. BSOAS is distinguished by the quality of its scholarship and the range of its coverage. BSOAS welcomes submissions on the history, religions, languages, literatures, laws, artistic cultures, and related fields pertaining to the societies and countries of Asia and Africa. Authors are encouraged to write in such a way that they be understood by interested non-specialists. As well as research articles, BSOAS publishes short notes and communications, obituaries of significant scholars, and review articles that situate important new publications in their wider scholarly context. BSOAS also has a comprehensive section where new publications are reviewed or, when appropriate, more briefly noted.

International Journal of Asian Studies

Editor-in-Chief

Takeshi Hamashita | Kyoto University, Japan

Managing Editors

Akinobu Kuroda | University of Tokyo, Japan

Gaynor Sekimori | University of Tokyo, Japan

International Journal of Asian Studies (IJAS) is an interdisciplinary, English-language forum for research in the social sciences and humanities. IJAS examines Asia on a regional basis, emphasising patterns and tendencies that go beyond the borders of individual countries. While the Journal covers all regions of Asia, the primary focus is on eastern Asia, that is, Korea, China, Taiwan, Vietnam and Japan. As well as encouraging contributions from western scholars, IJAS focuses attention on the work of Asian scholars, in order to encourage multi-directional communication across the international Asian studies community. IJAS includes both themed and general issues.

The Journal of Asian Studies

Editor

Kenneth M. George | University of Wisconsin-Madison, USA

Published for the Association for Asian Studies

The Journal of Asian Studies (JAS) has played a defining role in the field of Asian studies for over 65 years. JAS publishes the very best empirical and multidisciplinary work on Asia, spanning the arts, history, literature, the social sciences, and cultural studies. Experts around the world turn to this quarterly journal for the latest in-depth scholarship on Asia's past and present, for its extensive book reviews, and for its state-of-the-field essays on established and emerging topics. With coverage reaching from South and Southeast Asia to China, Inner Asia, and Northeast Asia, JAS welcomes broad comparative and transnational studies as well as essays emanating from fine-grained historical, cultural, political, or literary research and interpretation. The journal also publishes clusters of papers representing new and vibrant discussions on specific themes and issues.

The Journal of Modern African Studies

Editor

Christopher Clapham | University of Cambridge, UK

Journal of Modern African Studies offers a quarterly survey of developments in modern African politics and society. Its main emphasis is on current issues in African politics, economies, societies and international relations. It is intended not only for students and academic specialists, but also for general readers and practitioners with a concern for modern Africa, living and working both inside and outside the continent. Editorial policy avoids commitment to any political viewpoint or ideology, but aims at a fair examination of controversial issues in order to promote a deeper understanding of what is happening in Africa today. The journal also includes an invaluable book review section.

Biofilms

Editor-in-Chief

M. Wilson | University College London, UK

Biofilms are increasingly being recognised as the preferred mode of growth of microbes in a wide range of habitats. Biofilms have a large and varied role in human activities from being responsible for a number of diseases in humans and animals to also being invaluable in the treatment of domestic sewage and industrial wastes.

Biofilms aims to be the most important forum for the publication of articles on biofilms and the journal of choice for researchers in the biofilm field.

Published quarterly, Biofilms contains original research articles and review articles covering the structure, formation and growth of biofilms, gene expression and transfer in biofilms, human and animal diseases involving biofilms, biofilms in the food, oil and pharmaceutical industries, biofilms associated with soil, water, waste treatment, corrosion and marine environments. It also publishes reviews of books and internet sites and will contain announcements of interest to the biofilm community.

Epidemiology and Infection

Senior Editor/Managing Editor

Norman Noah | London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine, UK

Epidemiology and Infection publishes original reports and reviews on all aspects of infection in humans and animals. Particular emphasis is given to the epidemiology, prevention and control of infectious diseases. The field covered is broad and includes the zoonoses, tropical infections, food hygiene, vaccine studies, statistics and the clinical, social and public-health aspects of infectious disease. Papers covering microbiology and immunology which have an epidemiological relevance are part of this broad field. Papers come from medical and veterinary scientists worldwide. It has become the key periodical in which to find the latest reports on recently discovered infections and new technology. For those concerned with policy and planning for the control of infections, the papers on mathematical modelling of epidemics caused by historical, current and emergent infections, will be of particular value. To celebrate 100 years of the journal, a series of important papers has been selected and each, together with a modern commentary on the paper by an expert, has been published on-line.

Fetal and Maternal Medicine Review

Editor-in-Chief

Stephen Robson | Fetal Medicine Unit, Royal Victoria Infirmary, Newcastle upon Tyne, UK

Fetal and Maternal Medicine Review publishes high quality reviews drawn from all relevant disciplines in this rapidly expanding field. Each issue includes a selection of clinical and research reviews from experts in the field. Rapid publication and a deliberate preference for authors currently active in research ensures this journal has immediate relevance to contemporary clinical practice. Subject areas covered include fetal medicine, maternal medicine, neonatology, obstetric anaesthesia, epidemiology and basic science. It is essential reading for all engaged in the care of pregnant women and neonates including obstetricians and neonatologists, postgraduates training for specialist careers, specialist nursing and midwifery staff.

Journal of Biosocial Science

Editor

C. G. N. Mascie-Taylor | University of Cambridge, UK

Journal of Biosocial Science is a leading interdisciplinary and international journal in the field of biosocial science, the common ground between biology and sociology. It acts as an essential reference guide for all biological and social scientists working in these interdisciplinary areas, including social and biological aspects of reproduction and its control, gerontology, ecology, genetics, applied psychology, sociology, education, criminology, demography, health and epidemiology. Publishing original research papers, short reports, reviews, lectures and book reviews, the journal also includes a Debate section that encourages readers' comments on specific articles, with subsequent response from the original author. JBS is truly international both in terms of geographical areas covered and its contributors. Its reputation for high quality and outstanding scholarship has made it into one of the leading journals in the area of biosocial science.

Quarterly Reviews of Biophysics

A review journal of biological function, structure and mechanism

Editors
Steve Goldstein | University of Chicago, USA
Andrew G. W. Leslie, FRS | MRC Laboratory of Molecular Biology, Cambridge, UK
David M. J. Lilley, FRS | University of Dundee, UK
Bengt Nordén | Chalmers University of Technology, Göteborg, Sweden
Gerhard Wagner | Harvard Medical School, USA

The official journal of the International Union for Pure and Applied Biophysics

Quarterly Reviews of Biophysics covers the whole field of biophysics, from ion channels to DNA topology and from X-ray diffraction to NMR. The journal has gained a worldwide reputation, demonstrated by its high ranking in the Thomson Scientific Journal Citation Reports (JCR)®, as a forum for general and specialised communication between biophysicists working in different areas. The majority of reviews published are invited from authors who have made significant contributions to the field, who give critical, readable and sometimes controversial accounts of recent progress and problems in their speciality. Thematic issues are occasionally published.

The Classical Quarterly

Editors

Miriam Griffin | Somerville College, Oxford, UK

Judith Mossman | University of Nottingham, UK

Published for The Classical Association

The Classical Quarterly has a reputation for publishing the highest quality classical scholarship for nearly 100 years. It publishes research papers and short notes in the fields of language, literature, history and philosophy. Two substantial issues (around 300 pages each) of The Classical Quarterly appear each year, in May and December. Given the quality and depth of the articles published in The Classical Quarterly, any serious classical library needs to have a copy on its shelves.

The Classical Review

Editor

Roy Gibson | University of Manchester, UK

Neil Hopkinson | Trinity College, Cambridge, UK

Published for The Classical Association

The Classical Review publishes informative reviews from leading scholars on new work covering the literatures and civilizations of ancient Greece and Rome. Publishing 300 reviews every year, The Classical Review is an indispensable reference tool, essential for keeping abreast with current classical scholarship.

Greece & Rome

Editors, Greece & Rome

Vedia Izzet | University of Southampton, UK

Robert Shorrock | Eton College, UK

Editor, New Surveys in the Classics

John Taylor | Tonbridge School, UK

Published for The Classical Association

Published with the wider audience in mind, Greece & Rome features informative and lucid articles on ancient history, art, archaeology, religion, philosophy, and the classical tradition. Although its content is of interest to professional scholars, undergraduates and general readers who wish to be kept informed of what scholars are currently thinking will find it engaging and accessible. All Greek and Latin quotations are translated.

A subscription to Greece & Rome includes a supplement of New Surveys in the Classics. These supplements have covered a broad range of topics, from key figures like Homer and Virgil, to subjects such as Greek tragedy, thought and science, women, slavery, and Roman religion. The 2007 New Survey will be on comedy by Nick Lowe.

AI EDAM

Artificial Intelligence for Engineering Design, Analysis and Manufacturing

Editor

David C. Brown | Worcester Polytechnic Institute, USA

The journal publishes significant, original articles about AI theory and applications based on the most up-to-date research in all branches and phases of engineering. Suitable topic areas include: analysis and evaluation; selection; configuration and design; manufacturing and assembly; and concurrent engineering. Specific subareas include: cognitive modeling; creativity; learning; qualitative reasoning; spatial reasoning; graphics and modeling; constraints and preferences; style and brands; human-computer interaction; multi-modal interaction; computational linguistics; design and process planning; scheduling; simulation; optimization; distributed teams and systems; multi-agent applications; design rationale and histories; functional, behavioral and structural reasoning; knowledge management; and ontologies.

Journal of Functional Programming

Editors-in-Chief

Paul Hudak | Yale University, USA

Greg Morrisett | Harvard University, USA

Journal of Functional Programming is the only journal devoted solely to the design, implementation, and application of functional programming languages, spanning the range from mathematical theory to industrial practice. Topics covered include functional languages and extensions, implementation techniques, reasoning and proof, program transformation and synthesis, type systems, type theory, language-based security, memory management, parallelism and applications. The journal is of interest to computer scientists, software engineers, programming language researchers and mathematicians interested in the logical foundations of programming.

Knowledge Engineering Review

Editor-in-Chief

Simon Parsons | Brooklyn College, City University of New York, USA

Knowledge Engineering Review is committed to the development of the field of artificial intelligence and the clarification and dissemination of its methods and concepts. KER publishes analyses – high quality surveys providing balanced but critical presentations of the primary concepts in an area; technical tutorials; detailed introductions to an area; application and country surveys, commentaries and debates; book reviews; and a popular ‘from the journals’ section, giving the contents of current journals in theoretical and applied artificial intelligence.

Mathematical Structures in Computer Science

Editor-in-Chief

G. Longo | CNRS and École Normale Supérieure, Paris, France

Mathematical Structures in Computer Science is a journal of theoretical computer science which focuses on the application of ideas from the structural side of mathematics and mathematical logic to computer science. The journal aims to bridge the gap between theoretical contributions and software design, publishing original papers of a high standard and broad surveys with original perspectives in all areas of computing, provided that ideas or results from logic, algebra, geometry, category theory or other areas of logic and mathematics form a basis for the work. The journal welcomes applications to computing based on the use of specific mathematical structures (e.g. topological and order-theoretic structures) as well as on proof-theoretic notions or results. The journal will also accept contributions in new interdisciplinary fields bridging computer science, quantum physics, computational biology, mathematics and information theory. In particular, papers on quantum information processing and communication, as well as on the related issues in quantum language design will be considered.

Natural Language Engineering

Executive Editor

John I. Tait | University of Sunderland, UK

Natural Language Engineering meets the needs of professionals and researchers working in all areas of computerised language processing, whether from the perspective of theoretical or descriptive linguistics, lexicology, computer science or engineering. Its aim is to bridge the gap between traditional computational linguistics research and the implementation of practical applications with potential real-world use. As well as publishing research articles on a broad range of topics – from text analysis, machine translation, information retrieval and speech analysis and generation to integrated systems and multi modal interfaces – it also publishes special issues on specific areas and technologies within these topics, an industry watch column and book reviews.

Robotica

Editor-in-Chief

G. S. Chirikjian | Johns Hopkins University, USA

An Official Journal of the International Federation of Robotics

Robotica is a forum for the multidisciplinary subject of robotics and encourages developments, applications and research in this important field of automation and robotics with regard to industry, health, education and economic and social aspects of relevance. Coverage includes activities in hostile environments, applications in the service and manufacturing industries, biological robotics, dynamics and kinematics involved in robot design and uses, on-line robots, robot task planning, rehabilitation robotics, sensory perception, software in the widest sense, particularly in respect of programming languages and links with CAD/CAM systems, telerobotics and various other areas. In addition, interest is focused on various Artificial Intelligence topics of theoretical and practical interest. Emphasis is placed on sound theory and realistic applications of robotics and AI in the general field of automation.

Theory and Practice of Logic Programming

Editor-in-Chief
A. Bossi | Università Ca' Foscari di Venezia, Italy

Published for the Association for Logic Programming

Theory and Practice of Logic Programming emphasises both the theory and practice of logic programming. Logic programming applies to all areas of artificial intelligence and computer science and is fundamental to them. Among the topics covered are AI applications that use logic programming, natural language processing, knowledge representation, nonmonotonic reasoning, databases, implementations and architectures and constraint logic programming. In addition to these topics, reviews of books are featured, and cases of elegant and efficient logic programs, which appear in the Logic Programming Pearls section.

Editors
David W. H. Walton | British Antarctic Survey, Cambridge, UK
Michiel R. van den Broeke | Institute for Marine and Atmospheric Research, Utrecht, The Netherlands
Alan P. M. Vaughan | British Antarctic Survey, Cambridge, UK

Published for Antarctic Science Ltd, Cambridge

Antarctic Science provides a focus for many of the interdisciplinary studies that increasingly characterize Antarctic science, yet also carries a wide range of disciplinary papers. The journal attracts papers from over 25 countries including almost all of the countries undertaking Antarctic research at present. It publishes both review and data papers with no limits on length, two page short notes on technical developments and recent discoveries, and book reviews. These, together with an editorial discussing broader aspects of science, provide a rich and varied mixture of items to interest researchers in all areas of science. One issue each year is normally devoted to a specific theme or papers from a major meeting.

International Journal of Astrobiology

Managing Editor

Simon Mitton | University of Cambridge, UK

Astrobiology combines the sciences of biology, chemistry, palaeontology, geology, atmospheric physics, planetary science, astrophysics and cosmology in the study of the origin, evolution and distribution of life in the universe and the future of life both on Earth and beyond. International Journal of Astrobiology is the forum for practitioners in this exciting interdisciplinary field. Coverage includes cosmic prebiotic chemistry, planetary evolution, the search for planetary systems and habitable zones, extremophile biology and experimental simulation of extraterrestrial environments, Mars as an abode of life, life detection in our solar system and beyond, the search for extraterrestrial intelligence, the history of the science of astrobiology, as well as societal and educational aspects of astrobiology. Occasionally an issue of the journal is devoted to the keynote plenary research papers from an international meeting. A notable feature of the journal is the global distribution of its authors.

Editor

Norman Hughes | The Royal Institute of Navigation, UK

Published for The Royal Institute of Navigation

Journal of Navigation contains original papers on the science of navigation by man and animals over land and sea and through air and space, including a selection of papers presented at meetings of the Institute and other organisations associated with navigation. Papers cover every aspect of navigation, from the highly technical to the descriptive and historical. Subjects include electronics, astronomy, mathematics, cartography, command and control, psychology and zoology, operational research, risk analysis, theoretical physics, operation in hostile environments, instrumentation, ergonomics, financial planning and law. The journal also publishes selected papers and reports from the Institute's Special Interest Groups. Contributions come from all parts of the world.

Journal of Systematic Palaeontology

Editor-in-Chief

Andrew B. Smith | The Natural History Museum, UK

Published for the Natural History Museum

Journal of Systematic Palaeontology publishes major papers describing new or poorly understood faunas and floras, or which use systematics in ways that significantly advance our understanding of palaeogeography, palaeobiology, functional morphology, palaeoecology, biostratigraphy or phylogenetic relationships. Shorter contributions on technical or conceptual issues relating to systematic methodology and conservation issues are also welcome. In this way the journal aims to demonstrate and strengthen the fundamental contribution systematics and collection-based data make to evolutionary palaeontology.

Proceedings of the International Astronomical Union

Chair of the IAU Editorial Board:

Karel A. van der Hucht | IAU Assistant General Secretary Utrecht, Netherlands

Published for the International Astronomical Union

The Proceedings Series of the International Astronomical Union (IAU) comprises high-quality and timely previews and reviews of fundamental and state-of-the-art astrophysical developments around the world, as presented at some ten IAU-sponsored conferences per year. The results are recorded in the Proceedings of its Symposia, in its Transactions A and B, and in its Highlights of Astronomy that contains the Proceedings of Joint Discussions held at the triennial General Assemblies of the IAU.

Subjects covered by the IAU conferences are fundamental astronomy; the sun and heliosphere; planetary systems, stars; interstellar matter; the galactic system; galaxies and the universe; optical and infrared techniques; radio astronomy; and space and high-energy astrophysics. The Proceedings of these conferences are published under the auspices of the IAU, as important records of the status of those scientific fields.

The IAU Proceedings Series is essential reading for both professional astrophysicists and students, for finding comprehensive reviews and for studying new developments in specialized fields.

Bulletin of Entomological Research

Editor-in-Chief

William Symondson | Cardiff University, UK

Established in 1910, Bulletin of Entomological Research is an internationally recognised journal focusing on applied entomology from the traditional to the cutting edge. The Bulletin publishes high quality and original research papers, review articles and short communications concerning insects, mites, ticks or other arthropods of economic importance in agriculture, forestry, stored products, biological control, medicine, animal health and natural resource management. The scope of papers addresses the biology, ecology, behaviour, physiology, systematics and genetics of species, communities and populations with a renewed focus on the molecular biology and ecology of insects in an applied context.

International Journal of Environmental Science

Editor

Nicholas V. C. Polunin | University of Newcastle, UK

Published for the Foundation for Environmental Conservation

Environmental Conservation is one of the longest-standing, most highly cited of the comprehensive interdisciplinary environmental science journals. It includes research papers, comments, subject reviews, and book reviews addressing environmental policy, practice, and natural and social science of environmental concern at a global level. The journal's scope is very broad, including issues in human institutions, pollution and habitat degradation, resource exploitation, terrestrial biomes, atmospheric and oceanic processes, and coastal and land management. Environmental Conservation is essential reading for all environmentalists, managers, consultants, agency workers and scientists wishing to keep abreast of current developments in environmental science.

JMBA is an international journal with a worldwide distribution, publishing original research on all aspects of marine biology. It includes current international research developments and features much of the pioneering work taking place today on major issues concerning marine organisms and their environment. Subjects covered include: ecological surveys and population studies of oceanic, coastal and shore communities; physiology and experimental biology; taxonomy, morphology and life history of marine animals and plants; and chemical and physical oceanographic work which relates closely to the biological environment. Papers are also published on the rapidly developing techniques employed at sea for the sampling, recording, capture and observation of marine organisms. JMBA is produced from a working marine laboratory by scientists actively involved in research.

Systematics and Biodiversity

Editor-in-Chief

Brian Rosen | Natural History Museum, UK

Published for the Natural History Museum

Systematics and Biodiversity is an international life science journal devoted to whole-organism biology, especially systematics and taxonomic biodiversity. It emphasizes the importance and multi-disciplinary significance of systematics. It records the diversity of organisms through descriptive taxonomic papers. The underlying basis of biodiversity is addressed directly and indirectly, through studies of taxonomic relationships, and of growth, form, adaptation and function, and through analysis and synthesis of biodiversity patterns in time and space, especially with respect to environmental and human factors. Coverage also includes relevant theory and methodology, and conservation biology.

The Lichenologist

Senior Editor

Peter D. Crittenden | University of Nottingham, UK

Published for The British Lichen Society

The Lichenologist is the premier scientific journal devoted exclusively to the study of lichens worldwide. As the leading forum for the dissemination of new concepts and topical reviews, The Lichenologist reaches more scientists concerned with the study of lichens and lichen symbionts than any other single journal. All aspects of lichenology are considered including systematics and phylogenetics; molecular biology; ultrastructure, anatomy and morphology; secondary chemistry, effects of pollutants and use as bioindicators; biogeography. In addition to standard length research papers, the journal also publishes Short Communications and Book Reviews. A monthly issue may occasionally be devoted to papers deriving from a symposium.

Environment and Development Economics

Editor

Anastasios Xepapadeas | University of Crete, Greece

Published in association with the Beijer Institute of Ecological Economics, Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences

Environment and Development Economics is positioned at the intersection of environmental, resource and development economics. The Editor and Associate Editors, supported by a distinguished panel of advisors from around the world, aim to encourage submissions from researchers in the field in both developed and developing countries. The journal is divided into two main sections, Theory and Applications, which includes regular academic papers and Policy Options, which includes papers that may be of interest to the wider policy community. Environment and Development Economics also publishes Policy Fora (discussions based on a focal paper) and Book Reviews. From time to time the journal publishes special issues based on a particular theme. Past special issues have included Advances in green accounting, edited by Jeff Vincent and Economics of water, economic development and the environment, edited by Ujjayant Chakravorty and Tim Swanson.

Geoffrey M. Hodgson | University of Hertfordshire, UK

Editors

Elias L. Khalil | Monash University, Australia

Richard N. Langlois | University of Connecticut, USA

Bart Nooteboom | Tilburg University, Netherlands

Ugo Pagano | University of Siena, Italy

Published for The JOIE Foundation

Institutions are the stuff of social and economic life. The importance of understanding the role of institutions in economic growth is now widely appreciated. Journal of Institutional Economics is devoted to the study of the nature, role and evolution of institutions in the economy, including firms, states, markets, money, households and other vital institutions and organizations. It welcomes contributions by all schools of thought that can contribute to our understanding of the features, development and functions of real world economic institutions and organizations. Journal of Institutional Economics is an interdisciplinary journal that will be of interest to all academics working in the social sciences, particularly in economics and business studies. Contributions from politics, geography, anthropology, sociology and philosophy will also be welcomed. Journal of Institutional Economics aims to provide all authors with an expert verdict on their articles within fifty days of submission.

Journal of Pension Economics and Finance

Editors

J. R. Brown | University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, USA

Steven Haberman | Cass Business School, City University, UK

Moshe Milevsky | York University, Canada

J. Michael Orszag | Watson Wyatt, UK

Journal of Pension Economics and Finance (JPEF) is the only academic journal focusing on the economics and finance of pensions and retirement income. The ageing population, together with the shrinking workforce, heralds a growing pensions crisis, which has become a key public policy issue in developed countries and elsewhere. JPEF provides a valuable and influential forum for international debate in this area.

The journal is co-sponsored by the International Organisation of Pension Supervisors (IOPS) and the OECD. JPEF publishes original research papers, covering a variety of topics, including pension fund management, the regulation of pensions, and pensions and labour markets. There is also an Issues & Policy section which includes papers reviewing the state of debate on current public policies and other major aspects of the pensions debate.

Anglo-Saxon England

Editors

Malcolm R. Godden | University of Oxford, UK

Simon Keynes | University of Cambridge, UK

Anglo-Saxon England is recognised internationally as the foremost regular publication in its field. In fact it is the only one which consistently embraces all the main aspects of study of Anglo-Saxon history and culture – linguistic, literary, textual, palaeographic, religious, intellectual, historical, archaeological and artistic – and which promotes the more unusual interests – in music or medicine or education, for example. Especially it seeks to exploit the advantages of a broadly based interdisciplinary approach. Each volume provides a systematic bibliography of all the works published in every branch of Anglo-Saxon studies during the preceding twelve months. The journal's editorial board follows a strict policy of reviewing submissions, and invites contributions (in English) from experienced and promising scholars from anywhere in the world.

Central European History

Editor-in-Chief

Kenneth Ledford | Case Western Reserve University, USA

Published for the Conference Group for Central European History of the American Historical Association

Central European History offers articles, review essays, and book reviews that range widely through the history of Germany, Austria, and other German-speaking regions of Central Europe from the medieval era to the present. All topics and approaches to history are welcome, whether cultural, social, political, diplomatic, intellectual, economic, and military history, as well as historiography and methodology. Contributions that treat new fields, such as post-1945 and post-1989 history, maturing fields such as gender history, and less-represented fields such as medieval history and the history of the Habsburg lands are especially desired. The journal thus aims to be the primary venue for scholarly exchange and debate among scholars of the history of Central Europe.

Contemporary European History

Editors

Jonathan Morris | University of Hertfordshire, UK

Mary Vincent | University of Sheffield, UK

Corresponding Editor for North America

John Connelly | University of California, Berkeley, USA

Associate Editor

Holger Nehring | University of Sheffield, UK

Contemporary European History covers the history of Eastern and Western Europe, including the United Kingdom, from 1918 to the present. By combining a wide geographical compass with a relatively short time span, the journal achieves both range and depth in its coverage. It is open to all forms of historical inquiry – including cultural, economic, international, political and social approaches – and welcomes comparative analysis. One issue per year explores a broad theme under the guidance of a guest editor. The 2007 theme issue will be on the topic of World War and Population Displacement in Twentieth Century Europe. The journal regularly features contributions from scholars outside the Anglophone community and acts as a channel of communication between European historians throughout the continent and beyond it.

Managing Editor

Aad Blok | Internationaal Instituut voor Sociale Geschiedenis, The Netherlands

Published for the Internationaal Instituut voor Sociale Geschiedenis

International Review of Social History is one of the leading journals in its field. Truly global in its scope, it focuses on research in social and labour history from a comparative and transnational perspective, both in the modern and in the early modern period, and across periods. The journal combines quality, depth and originality of its articles with an open eye for theoretical innovation and new insights and methods from within its field and from contiguous disciplines. Besides research articles, it features surveys of new themes and subject fields, a suggestions and debates section, review essays and book reviews. It is esteemed for its annotated bibliography of social history titles, and also publishes an annual supplement of specially commissioned essays on a current theme. The 2007 supplement will be on the role of humour in social protest.

Chief Editor

William Gervase Clarence-Smith | SOAS, London, UK

Editors

Ken Pomeranz | University of California, USA

Peer Vries | Leiden University, Netherlands

Published for the London School of Economics and Political Science

Journal of Global History addresses the main problems of global change over time, together with the diverse histories of globalization. It also examines counter-currents to globalization, including those that have structured other spatial units. The journal seeks to transcend the dichotomy between ‘the West and the rest’, straddle traditional regional boundaries, relate material to cultural and political history, and overcome thematic fragmentation in historiography. The journal also acts as a forum for interdisciplinary conversations across a wide variety of social and natural sciences.

Modern Intellectual History

Editors

Charles Capper | Boston University, USA

Anthony J. La Vopa | North Carolina State University, USA

Nicholas T. Phillipson | Edinburgh University, UK

This important journal serves as a focal point and forum for scholarship on intellectual history and related fields in cultural history from 1650 onwards, with primary attention to Europe and the United States but also to transnational developments that encompass the non-West. MIH enquires into this era’s intellectual discourses and texts, their contextual origins and reception, and the recovery of their historical meanings. The term ‘texts’ encompasses various forms of intellectual and cultural expression, including political thought, philosophy, religion, literature, the social sciences, the natural sciences, and the visual arts.

Rural History

Economy, Society, Culture

Editors
Liz Bellamy | University of East Anglia, UK
Keith D. M. Snell | University of Leicester, UK
Tom Williamson | University of East Anglia, UK

Rural History is well known as a stimulating forum for interdisciplinary exchange. Its definition of rural history ignores traditional subject boundaries to encourage the cross-fertilisation that is essential for an understanding of rural society. It stimulates original scholarship and provides access to the best of recent research. While concentrating on the English-speaking world and Europe, the journal is not limited in geographical coverage. Subject areas include: agricultural history; historical ecology; folklore; popular culture and religion; rural literature; landscape history, archaeology and material culture; vernacular architecture; ethnography, anthropology and rural sociology; the study of women in rural societies; relationships between the urban and the rural; and the politics of rural societies. The journal accommodates varying disciplinary reference systems, and publishes book reviews and review articles.

The Historical Journal

Editors

Clare Jackson | University of Cambridge, UK
Robert Tombs | University of Cambridge, UK
William O'Reilly | University of Cambridge, UK

The Historical Journal seeks to publish papers on all aspects of British, European, and world history since the fifteenth century. The best contemporary scholarship is represented. Contributions come from all parts of the world. The journal aims to publish some thirty-five articles and communications each year and to review recent historical literature, mainly in the form of historiographical reviews and review articles. The journal provides a forum for younger scholars making a distinguished debut as well as publishing the work of historians of established reputation.

The Journal of African History

Editors

Emmanuel K. Akyeampong | Harvard University, USA
Andreas Eckert | Hamburg University, Germany
Anne Mager | University of Cape Town, South Africa
Justin Willis | University of Durham, UK

The Journal of African History publishes articles and book reviews ranging widely over the African past, from the late Stone Age to the present. In recent years increasing prominence has been given to economic, cultural and social history and several articles have explored themes which are also of growing interest to historians of other regions such as: gender roles, demography, health and hygiene, propaganda, legal ideology, labour histories, nationalism and resistance, environmental history, the construction of ethnicity, slavery and the slave trade, and photographs as historical sources. Contributions dealing with pre-colonial historical relationships between Africa and the African diaspora are especially welcome, as are historical approaches to the post-colonial period.

Urban History

Editors

Richard Rodger | University of Leicester, UK
Rosemary Sweet | University of Leicester, UK
North American Editor
Philip J. Ethington | University of Southern California, USA

Urban History occupies a central place in historical scholarship, with an outstanding record of interdisciplinary contributions, and a broad-based and distinguished panel of referees and international advisors. Each issue features wide-ranging research articles covering social, economic, political and cultural aspects of the history of towns and cities. The journal coverage is worldwide in its scope: over half of the articles are on non-British topics, with a very strong concentration on European cities. It has recently developed a new publishing venture, hosting innovative multi-media websites – including graphics, sound and interactive elements – to accompany selected print articles. The journal also includes book reviews, summaries of PhD theses, and surveys of recent articles in academic journals. In addition, Urban History acts as a forum for stimulating debate on historiographical and methodological issues. An indispensable tool for urban historians worldwide, the journal's annual bibliography features on average over 1000 publications culled from monographs, edited collections and periodicals.

A Historical Journal

Executive Editors
Roshdi Rashed | CNRS, Paris, France
Basim Musallam | University of Cambridge, UK
Managing Editor
A. Hasnaoui | CNRS, Paris, France

This international journal is devoted to the history of the Arabic sciences, mathematics and philosophy in the world of Islam between the eighth and the eighteenth centuries in a cross-cultural context. It publishes original studies of the highest standard on the history of these disciplines as well as studies of the inter-relations between Arabic sciences and philosophy, on the one hand, and Greek, Indian, Chinese, Latin, Byzantine, Syriac and Hebrew sciences and philosophy, on the other hand. Arabic Sciences and Philosophy casts new light on the growth of these disciplines as well as on the social and ideological context in which this growth took place. Articles are published in English, French and German with abstracts in French and English.

Editors
Leo Corry | The Cohn Institute for the History and Philosophy of Science and Ideas, Tel Aviv University, Israel

Alexandre Métraux | University of Mannheim, Germany
Jürgen Renn | Max-Planck-Institut für Wissenschaftsgeschichte, Berlin, Germany

Science in Context is an international journal edited at The Cohn Institute for the History and Philosophy of Science and Ideas, Tel Aviv University. It is devoted to the study of the sciences from the points of view of comparative epistemology and historical sociology of scientific knowledge. The journal is committed to an interdisciplinary approach to the study of science and its cultural development – it does not segregate considerations drawn from history, philosophy and sociology. Controversies within scientific knowledge and debates about methodology are presented in their contexts.

Language and Linguistics

Annual Review of Applied Linguistics

Editor-in-Chief

Mary McGroarty | Northern Arizona University, USA

An official journal of the American Association for Applied Linguistics

Annual Review of Applied Linguistics reviews research in key areas in the broad field of applied linguistics. Each issue is thematic, covering the topic by means of critical summaries, overviews and bibliographic citations. Every fourth or fifth issue surveys applied linguistics broadly, offering timely essays on language learning and pedagogy, discourse analysis, teaching innovations, second language acquisition, computer-assisted instruction, language use in professional contexts, sociolinguistics, language policy, and language assessment, to name just a few of the areas reviewed. It provides over 500 new citations each year. The theme for Volume 27 (2007) is Language and Technology and the guest editor for this volume is Numa Markee. The 2008 volume will cover neurolinguistics and cognitive aspects of language processing, and its guest editor will be Kees de Bot.

English Language and Linguistics

Editors

Bas Aarts | University College London, UK
David Denison | University of Manchester, UK
Richard Hogg | University of Manchester, UK

English Language and Linguistics, published three times a year from 2007, is an international journal which focuses on the description of the English language within the framework of contemporary linguistics. The journal is concerned equally with the synchronic and the diachronic aspects of English language studies and publishes articles of the highest quality which make a substantial contribution to our understanding of the structure and development of the English language and which are informed by a knowledge and appreciation of linguistic theory. English Language and Linguistics carries articles and short discussion papers or squibs on all core aspects of English, from its beginnings to the present day, including syntax, morphology, phonology, semantics, pragmatics, corpus linguistics and lexis. There is also a major review section including, from time to time, articles that give an overview of current research in particular specialist areas. Occasional issues are devoted to a special topic, when a guest editor is invited to commission articles from leading specialists in the field.

Journal of Child Language

Editors

Edith L. Bavin | La Trobe University, Australia
Philip S. Dale | University of New Mexico, USA

A key publication in the field, Journal of Child Language publishes articles on all aspects of the scientific study of language behaviour in children, the principles which underlie it, and the theories which may account for it. The international range of authors and breadth of coverage allow the journal to forge links between many different areas of research including psychology, linguistics, cognitive science and anthropology. This interdisciplinary approach spans a wide range of interests: phonology, phonetics, morphology, syntax, vocabulary, semantics, pragmatics, sociolinguistics, or any other recognised facet of language study. In addition to articles and book reviews, the journal contains a 'Notes' section and an occasional section containing a review article plus commentaries by a range of other researchers.

Journal of French Language Studies

Journal International de Langue et Linguistique Françaises

Co-ordinating Editor

John N. Green | University of Bradford, UK

Editors

Nigel Armstrong | University of Leeds, UK

Francis Cornish | University of Toulouse-Le Mirail, France

Julia Herschensohn | University of Washington, USA

Florence Myles | University of Newcastle, UK

David Trotter | University of Wales at Aberystwyth, UK

Linda R. Waugh | University of Newcastle, UK

Sponsored by the Association for French Language Studies

Journal of French Language Studies encourages and promotes theoretical, descriptive and applied studies of all aspects of the French language. The journal brings together research from the English- and French-speaking traditions, publishing significant work on French phonology, morphology, syntax, lexis and semantics, discourse-pragmatics, sociolinguistics and variation studies. Most work is synchronic in orientation, but historical and comparative items are also included. Studies of the acquisition of the French language, where these take due account of current theory in linguistics and applied linguistics, are also published. Issues include survey articles reviewing the state of the art in a major field, as well as squibs on modern usage in French and a major book review section. One issue in three will be thematic and devoted to broad topics such as the acquisition of French, discourse or corpus-based descriptions of the French language.

Journal of Germanic Linguistics

Editorial Committee Chair

Robert W. Murray | University of Calgary, Canada

Published for the Society for Germanic Linguistics and the Forum for the Society for Germanic Language Studies

Journal of Germanic Linguistics (JGL) carries original articles, reviews, and notes on synchronic and diachronic issues pertaining to Germanic languages and dialects from the earliest phases to the present, including English (to 1500) and the extraterritorial varieties. Contributions are invited on the phonological, morphological, syntactic, and semantic analysis of these languages and dialects, as well as their historical development, both linguistic and textual. Especially welcome are contributions that address questions of interest to a broad range of scholars concerned with general issues in formal theory, sociolinguistics, and psycholinguistics. The language of publication is normally English, though manuscripts in German will be considered.

Journal of Linguistics

Editors

Nigel Fabb | University of Strathclyde, UK

Caroline Heycock | University of Edinburgh, UK

Robert D. Borsley | University of Essex, UK

Published for the Linguistics Association of Great Britain

Journal of Linguistics has as its goal to publish articles that make a clear contribution to current debate in all branches of theoretical linguistics. The journal also provides an excellent survey of recent linguistics publications, with around thirty book reviews in each volume and regular review articles on major works marking important theoretical advances.

'Journal of Linguistics is one of the top journals for theoretical linguistics. It's chock full of new ideas and wonderfully free of theoretical orthodoxy.'

Language Teaching

The international research resource for language professionals

Editors

Ewa Jaworska | University of Essex, UK

Graeme Porte | University of Granada, Spain

Published in association with The National Centre for Languages (CiLT) and the British Council

Language Teaching provides a convenient source of references on current research in (mainly) second and foreign language learning and teaching. Each issue offers at least one specially commissioned state-of-the-art article on a specific topic. A new series of articles provides an overview of second language acquisition and teaching research in individual countries, while another series reviews research into the teaching of languages other than English. Part of each issue is given over to abstracts of recent research articles on areas including reading and writing, teacher education, testing, bilingualism and neurolinguistics, selected from some two hundred key international periodicals.

Language Variation and Change

Editors

William Labov | University of Pennsylvania, USA

Rena Torres-Cacoullous | University of New Mexico, USA

Language Variation and Change is the only journal dedicated exclusively to the study of linguistic variation and the capacity to deal with systematic and inherent variation in synchronic and diachronic linguistics. Sociolinguistics involves analysing the interaction of language, culture and society; the more specific study of variation is concerned with the impact of this interaction on the structures and processes of traditional linguistics. Language Variation and Change concentrates on the details of linguistic structure in actual speech production and processing (or writing), including contemporary or historical sources.

Phonology

Editors

Colin J. Ewen | University of Leiden, The Netherlands

Ellen M. Kaisse | University of Washington, USA

Phonology, published three times a year, is the only journal devoted exclusively to the discipline, and provides a unique forum for the productive interchange of ideas among phonologists and those working in related disciplines. Preference is given to papers which make a substantial theoretical contribution, irrespective of the particular theoretical framework employed. The submission of papers presenting new empirical data of general theoretical interest is also encouraged. The journal carries research articles, as well as book reviews and shorter pieces on topics of current controversy within phonology.

ReCALL

Editors
Graham Chesters | University of Hull, UK
June Thompson | University of Hull, UK

The Journal of the European Association for Computer Assisted Language Learning

The primary focus of ReCALL is the use of technologies for language learning and teaching, including all relevant aspects of research and development. Typical subjects for submissions include theoretical debate on language learning strategies and their influence on courseware design; practical applications at developmental stage; evaluative studies of courseware used in the teaching and learning process; exploitation and assessment of the potential of technological advances in the delivery of language learning materials; discussions of policy and strategy at institutional and discipline levels. ReCALL aims to appeal to researchers and practitioners in the area of computer-assisted and technology-enhanced language learning, normally but not exclusively operating in universities. It is also of interest to language teachers in secondary and tertiary education who may be considering the introduction of technologies into their teaching practice. From 2007, ReCALL will be published three times a year, in January, May and September. The September publication will be a special issue on Integrating Corpora in Language Learning and Teaching, edited by Angela Chambers and June Thompson.

Studies in Second Language Acquisition

Editor
Albert Valdman | Indiana University, USA
Associate Editor
Susan Gass | Michigan State University, USA

Studies in Second Language Acquisition is a refereed journal of international scope devoted to the scientific discussion of issues in second and foreign language acquisition of any language. Each volume contains four issues, one of which is generally devoted to a current topic in the field. The other three issues contain articles dealing with theoretical topics, some of which have broad pedagogical implications, and reports of quantitative and qualitative empirical research. Other rubrics include replication studies, State-of-the-Art articles, Notes and Discussion, review articles, book reviews, and book notices.

Ecclesiastical Law Journal

Editor

Mark Hill | Cardiff University, UK

Published for The Ecclesiastical Law Society

Published three times a year in association with the Ecclesiastical Law Society, the journal publishes articles on all aspects of ecclesiastical law. Particular emphasis is given to the regulation of the Church of England and worldwide Anglican Communion, but the range of coverage includes comparative studies of the laws of other faiths and of the interface between law and religion in a global perspective. Through its regular Comment section, Ecclesiastical Law Journal provides a critical analysis of emergent trends written by distinguished scholars and practitioners in Europe and North America. The journal also includes book reviews and summaries of recent ecclesiastical cases determined by both secular and church courts, together with a parliamentary report, a brief summary of the proceedings of national Synods, and resumsés of major international conferences.

International Journal of Cultural Property

Editor

Alexander A. Bauer | Princeton University, USA

Published for the International Cultural Property Society

International Journal of Cultural Property provides a vital, international, and multidisciplinary forum for the broad spectrum of views surrounding cultural property, cultural heritage, and related issues. Its mission is to develop new ways of dealing with cultural property debates, to be a venue for the proposal or enumeration of pragmatic policy suggestions, and to be accessible to a wide audience of professionals, academics, and lay readers. This peer-reviewed journal publishes original research papers, case notes, documents of record, chronicles, conference reports, and book reviews. Contributions come from the wide variety of fields implicated in the debates – law, anthropology, public policy, archaeology, art history, preservation, ethics, economics, museum, tourism, and heritage studies – and from a variety of perspectives and interests – indigenous, Western, and non-Western; academic, professional and amateur; consumers and producers – to promote meaningful discussion of the complexities, competing values, and other concerns that form the environment within which these disputes exist.

International Review of the Red Cross

Editor-in-Chief

Toni Pfanner | The International Committee of the Red Cross, Switzerland

Published for the International Committee of the Red Cross

International Review of the Red Cross promotes reflection on humanitarian law, policy and action in armed conflict and other situations of collective armed violence. A specialized journal in humanitarian law, it endeavours to promote knowledge, critical analysis and development of the law and to contribute to the prevention of violations of rules protecting fundamental rights and values. International Review of the Red Cross offers a forum for discussion about contemporary humanitarian action as well as analysis of the causes and characteristics of conflicts so as to give a clearer insight into the humanitarian problems they generate. Finally, International Review of the Red Cross informs its readership on questions pertaining to the International Red Cross and Red Crescent Movement and in particular on the activities and policies of the Red Cross.

Netherlands Yearbook of International Law

General Editors

N. M. Blokker | Ministry of Foreign Affairs, Netherlands
D. M. Curtin | Utrecht University, Netherlands
P. A. Nollkaemper | University of Amsterdam, Netherlands
N. J. Schrijver | Vrije Universiteit, Amsterdam, Netherlands

Marketed and distributed for T.M.C. Asser Press

Netherlands Yearbook of International Law has been published since 1970. It has two main aims. It offers a forum for the publication of scholarly articles of a more general nature in the area of public international law, including the law of the European Union. In addition, it responds to the demand for information on state practice in the field of international law. Each Yearbook therefore includes an overview of state practice in the Netherlands, with statements of the government, treaties, legislation, judicial decisions and literature.

The Cambridge Law Journal

Editor

David J. Ibbetson | University of Cambridge, UK

Published for the Faculty of Law, University of Cambridge

The Cambridge Law Journal publishes articles on all aspects of law. Special emphasis is placed on contemporary developments, but the journal's range includes jurisprudence and legal history. An important feature of the journal is the Case and Comment section, in which members of the Cambridge Law Faculty and other distinguished contributors analyse recent judicial decisions, new legislation and current law reform proposals. The articles and case notes are designed to have the widest appeal to those interested in the law – whether as practitioners, students, teachers, judges or administrators – and to provide an opportunity for them to keep abreast of new ideas and the progress of legal reform. Each issue also contains an extensive section of book reviews.

Editor

Douglas A. Irwin | Dartmouth College, USA

World Trade Review was established at the initiative of the Secretariat of the World Trade Organization (WTO) in close cooperation with Cambridge University Press. It is an independent journal – the Editor and all but one member of the Editorial Board are drawn from university faculties. It includes articles written from economic, legal, political and interdisciplinary perspectives on issues of relevance to the multilateral trading system. Priority is given to papers that, along with being academically rigorous, are also accessible to government policy officials and the wider public. The journal also includes shorter articles seeking to rebut or challenge published papers.

General Editor
 Tim McCormack | University of Melbourne, Australia
 Managing Editor
 Avril McDonald | T.M.C. Asser Instituut, The Hague,
 Netherlands

Marketed and distributed for T.M.C. Asser Press

Yearbook of International Humanitarian Law provides a truly international forum for high-quality, peer-reviewed articles, commentaries on current developments, reports on state practice, and documentation that have international humanitarian law as their focal point. All aspects of international law applicable during international and non-international armed conflicts are covered, in addition to interesting and significant developments in related fields, such as international peace and security, international criminal law, human rights law, disarmament law and refugee law, inter alia. Distinguished by its topicality and contemporary relevance, the Yearbook bridges the gap between theory and practice and serves as a useful reference tool for scholars, practitioners, military personnel, civil servants, diplomats, human rights workers and students.

Literature

Victorian Literature and Culture

Editors
 John Maynard | New York University, USA
 Adrienne Munich | State University of New York at Stony Brook, USA

Victorian Literature and Culture encourages high quality original work concerned with all areas of Victorian literature and culture, including music and the fine arts. The journal presents work at the cutting edge of current research, including exciting new studies in untouched subjects or new methodologies. Contributions are welcomed from internationally established scholars as well as younger members of the profession. Future Editors' topics include Food and the Victorians and Victorian Natural History. Review essays form a central part of the journal, and offer an authoritative view of important subjects together with a list of relevant works that serves as an up-to-date bibliography. The Works in Progress section allows the communication of parts of major works well in advance of their final publication. The Special Effects section allows publication of primary materials either previously unavailable or unknown to most readers.

Acta Numerica

Editor

Arieh Iserles | University of Cambridge, UK

This annual collection of review articles includes survey papers by leading researchers in numerical analysis and scientific computing. The papers present overviews of recent advances and provide state-of-the-art techniques and analysis. Covering the breadth of numerical analysis, articles are written in a style accessible to researchers at all levels and can serve as advanced teaching aids. Broad subject areas for inclusion are computational methods in linear algebra, optimization, ordinary and partial differential equations, approximation theory, stochastic analysis and nonlinear dynamical systems, as well as the application of computational techniques in science and engineering and the mathematical theory underlying numerical methods.

Compositio Mathematica

Managing Editors

Bas Edixhoven | Leiden University, The Netherlands
Ben Moonen | University of Amsterdam, The Netherlands

Produced, marketed and distributed for the London Mathematical Society

Compositio Mathematica is a prestigious, well-established journal publishing first-class research papers that traditionally focus on the mainstream of pure mathematics. Compositio Mathematica has a broad scope which includes the fields of algebra, number theory, topology, algebraic and analytic geometry and (geometric) analysis. Papers on other topics are welcome if they are of broad interest. All contributions are required to meet high standards of quality and originality. Publications in this journal benefit from the added value of careful reviewing and editing. The journal has an international editorial board reflected in the journal content.

Ergodic Theory and Dynamical Systems

Managing Editors

Mark Pollicott | University of Warwick, UK
S. van Strien | University of Warwick, UK

Ergodic Theory and Dynamical Systems focuses on a rich variety of research areas which, although diverse, employ as common themes global dynamical methods. The journal provides a focus for this important and flourishing area of mathematics and brings together many major contributions in the field. The journal acts as a forum for central problems of dynamical systems and of interactions of dynamical systems with areas such as differential geometry, number theory, operator algebras, celestial and statistical mechanics, and biology.

European Journal of Applied Mathematics

Editors-in-Chief

S. D. Howison | University of Oxford, UK

A. A. Lacey | Heriot-Watt University, UK

M. J. Ward | University of British Columbia, Canada

Managing Editor of SMI

Heinz W. Engl | University of Linz, Austria

Since 2005 EJAM has incorporated Surveys on Mathematics for Industry, and now publishes both research papers and survey papers. EJAM/SMI focuses on those areas of applied mathematics inspired by real-world applications, at the same time fostering the development of theoretical methods with broad range of applicability. Survey papers contain reviews of emerging areas of mathematics with a particular relevance to users in industry and other disciplines. Research papers may be in any area of applied mathematics, with special emphasis on new mathematical ideas relevant to modelling and analysis in modern science and technology and the development of interesting mathematical methods of wide applicability.

Since 2005 EJAM has published incrementally online, with traditional print publication proceeding as usual.

Journal of the Institute of Mathematics of Jussieu

Editor

M. Harris | University of Paris VI, France

Published for the Institute of Mathematics of Jussieu

Journal of the Institute of Mathematics of Jussieu is a new publication covering all domains in pure mathematics. It will include important research articles from areas such as operator algebra, number theory, algebraic and Lie groups, differential and symplectic geometry, partial differential equations, Banach spaces, potential theory, mathematical physics, probability, Logic, differential equations etc. The journal will readily accept articles in all languages though the standard will be English, and its international editorial board naturally draws upon the broad expertise of the prestigious Jussieu Mathematical Institute.

LMS Journal of Computation and Mathematics

<http://www.lms.ac.uk/jcm>

Editor-in-Chief

J.E. Cremona | University of Nottingham, UK

Published by the London Mathematical Society

LMS Journal of Computation and Mathematics is an electronic-only resource that publishes papers on the computational aspects of mathematics, mathematical aspects of computation, and papers in mathematics which benefit from being published electronically. Rapid times to publication ensures that readers are kept abreast of ground-breaking developments fast and, while the main text of each paper is guaranteed to remain unaltered, the journal's format enables users to add updates and discussions to papers encouraging more interactivity. Hyperlinks are also provided for cross-references within and between papers. The journal is refereed to the same high standard as the established LMS journals, and carries a commitment from the LMS to keep it archived into the indefinite future.

Access is free until further notice. Go to <http://www.lms.ac.uk/jcm> for further details.

Mathematical Proceedings of the Cambridge Philosophical Society

Editor

G.P. Paternain | University of Cambridge, UK

Published for the Cambridge Philosophical Society

Mathematical Proceedings is one of the few high-quality journals publishing original research papers that cover the whole range of pure and applied mathematics, theoretical physics and statistics. All branches of pure mathematics are covered, in particular logic and foundations, number theory, algebra, geometry, algebraic and geometric topology, classical and functional analysis, differential equations, probability and statistics. On the applied side, mechanics, mathematical physics, relativity and cosmology are included.

Probability in the Engineering and Informational Sciences

Editor

Sheldon M. Ross | University of Southern California, USA

The primary focus of the journal is on stochastic modelling in the physical and engineering sciences, with particular emphasis on queueing theory, reliability theory, inventory theory, simulation, mathematical finance and probabilistic networks and graphs. Papers on analytic properties and related disciplines are also considered, as well as more general papers on applied and computational probability, if appropriate. Readers include academics working in statistics, operations research, computer science, engineering, management science and physical sciences as well as industrial practitioners engaged in telecommunications, computer science, financial engineering, operations research and management science.

Health Economics, Policy and Law

Editors-in-chief

Adam Oliver | London School of Economics and Political Science, UK

Elias Mossialos | London School of Economics and Political Science, UK

International trends highlight the confluence of economics, politics and legal considerations in the health policy process. Health Economics, Policy and Law serves as a forum for scholarship on health policy issues from these perspectives, and will be of use to academics, policy makers and health care managers and professionals. HEPL is international in scope, publishing both theoretical and applied work, with articles on all aspects of health policy. Considerable emphasis is placed on rigorous conceptual development and analysis, and on the presentation of empirical evidence that is relevant to the policy process.

International Journal of Technology Assessment in Health Care

Editors

Egon Jonsson | University of Alberta, Canada
Stanley J. Reiser, University of Texas, Houston, USA

The official journal of Health Technology Assessment International (HTAI)

International Journal of Technology Assessment in Health Care serves as a forum for researchers, health policy makers, and professionals interested in the medical, social, ethical, and economic implications of the diffusion and use of both established and new health technology. Health technology assessment covers essentially all issues of relevance to health policy and practice including systematic reviews, methodological developments in evaluative research, and the impact of health technology on organization and management of health care systems and public health. In addition to general essays and research reports, thematic sections are published.

Primary Health Care Research & Development

Editors

Rosamund Bryar | City University, UK
Sally Kendall | University of Hertfordshire, UK

Primary Health Care Research & Development is the first journal aimed specifically at both researchers and practitioners in primary health care, bridging the gap between the two areas. It provides a forum for the publication of international, interdisciplinary research and development in primary health care. It is essential reading for all involved in primary care: nurse practitioners, GPs and Health Service managers; professional and local groups in community health; researchers and academics; purchasers of primary health care services; allied health practitioners in secondary services and health-related consumer groups.

Cardiology in the Young

Editor-in-Chief

Robert H. Anderson | University College London, UK

Executive Editor

Edward Baker | Guy's Hospital, London, UK

Cardiology in the Young is devoted to cardiovascular issues affecting the young, and the older patient suffering the sequels of congenital heart disease, or other cardiac diseases acquired in childhood. The journal serves the interests of all professionals concerned with these topics. By design, the journal is international and multidisciplinary in its approach, and members of the editorial board take an active role in its mission, helping to make it the essential journal in paediatric cardiology. All aspects of paediatric cardiology are covered within the journal. The content includes original articles, brief reports, editorials, reviews, and papers devoted to continuing professional development. High-quality colour figures are published on a regular basis, and without charge to the authors. Regular supplements are published containing the abstracts of the annual meetings of the Association for European Paediatric Cardiology, and the proceedings of the meetings organised annually by the Children's Heart Institute of Florida, and the Children's Hospital of Philadelphia. The editorial team is currently looking to expand the number of supplements published each year. These are supplied free to subscribers.

Tempo

Editor

Calum MacDonald | Gloucestershire, UK

Tempo is the premier English-language journal devoted to 20th-century and contemporary concert music. Literate and scholarly articles, often illustrated with music examples, explore many aspects of the work of composers throughout the world. Written in an accessible style, approaches range from the narrative to the strictly analytical. Tempo frequently ventures outside the acknowledged canon to reflect the diversity of the modern music scene. Issues feature interviews with leading composers, a tabulated news section, and lively and wide-ranging reviews of recent recordings, books and first performances around the world. Selected issues also contain specially-commissioned music supplements.

twentieth-century music

Editor-in-Chief

Christopher Mark | University of Surrey, UK

twentieth-century music is a unique publication dedicated to leading research on all aspects of the music of the twentieth century – a period which may be interpreted flexibly to encompass music from the late-nineteenth century to the early years of the twenty-first. The journal explores Western art music, music from non-Western traditions, popular music, film music, jazz, improvised music and performance practice. Whilst it does not style itself as revisionist, the journal is guided by the principle that existing assumptions about twentieth-century music and the ways in which it has been and is currently studied should be rigorously examined and re-examined.

Journal of the International Neuropsychological Society

Editor-in-Chief

Kathleen Y. Haaland | NM VA Healthcare System,
 Albuquerque, USA

Published for the International Neuropsychological Society

JINS publishes peer-reviewed articles covering all areas of neuropsychology with either an experimental or clinical focus. Original research with an option for fast, short communications, critical reviews and dialogues that make a theoretical contribution to the field, and transactions of the annual meetings of the International Neuropsychological Society are published. Contributions reflect the interest of all areas of neuropsychology, including but not limited to development of cognitive processes, brain-behavior relationships, adult and child neuropsychology, disorders of speech and language, and very importantly the interface of neuropsychology with related areas, such as cognitive neuroscience, behavioral neurology and neuropsychiatry.

Neuron Glia Biology

Editor-in-Chief

R. Douglas Fields | National Institutes of Health, Bethesda, USA

Stimulated by recent advances in neuroscience, Neuron Glia Biology serves the expanding need for a scientific journal recognizing that two-way communication between neurons and glia is essential for nervous system function. In focusing on cell-cell interactions in the nervous system, this journal offers an expanded scope that bridges what have traditionally been regarded as separate scientific disciplines. Neuron Glia Biology publishes outstanding original research on cell-cell interactions in the nervous system, using molecular, biochemical, electrophysiological, and imaging methods, to investigate interactions among neurons and among glia, and between neurons and other non-neuronal cells. Basic and clinical research reporting new findings on cell-cell interactions during nervous system development, in association with information processing, synaptic plasticity, myelination, and pathology are presented, along with special feature issues and concise reviews of emerging areas in the field.

Newly published articles are made freely accessible 6–12 months after publication.

Progress in Neurotherapeutics and Neuropsychopharmacology

Editor-in-Chief

Jeffrey L. Cummings | Los Angeles, USA

Progress in Neurotherapeutics and Neuropsychopharmacology is an essential update of recent trials in all aspects of the management of neurologic and neuropsychiatric disorders, and will be an invaluable resource for practising neurologists as well as clinical and translational neuroscientists.

Published annually, the series provides readers with updates of recent clinical trial results, impacts of trials on guidelines and evidence-based practice, advances in trial methodologies, and the evolution of biomarkers in trials. The series focuses on trials in neurotherapeutics, including disease-modifying and symptomatic agents for neurological diseases, psychopharmacological management of neurologic and psychiatric illnesses, and non-drug treatments. Each paper is authored by a leader in the area of neurotherapeutics and clinical trials, and the series is guided by an editor-in-chief and editorial board with broad experience in drug development and neuropsychopharmacology.

Thalamus & Related Systems

Senior Editors

Edward G. Jones | University of California, Davis, USA
 Rodolfo R. Llinás | NY Medical Center, NY, USA

Thalamus & Related Systems publishes papers on the structure, organization and chemistry of thalamic neurons, including the development, single-cell electrophysiology and synaptic interaction, molecular biology, neuropsychology, computational neurobiology and pathology of the thalamus. Experimental studies, using a variety of techniques in vivo, in vitro and in computo, as well as clinical and behavioural studies (but not case reports), will be considered for publication. Papers with relevance to the thalamus and related systems, such as activities in thalamocortical, corticothalamic or brainstem-thalamic interactions, will also be considered. Multiple-part papers are encouraged. The journal publishes regular articles, short communications, occasional feature articles to address current and important issues (by invitation), mini-reviews and commentaries, and book reviews relevant to the thalamus.

The International Journal of Neuropsychopharmacology

Editor-in-Chief

Bernard Lerer | Hadassah-Hebrew University Medical Centre, Israel

The official scientific journal of the Collegium Internationale Neuro-Psychopharmacologicum

The International Journal of Neuropsychopharmacology (IJNP) serves as a major forum for the rapid publication and wide dissemination of high quality, influential research in neuropsychopharmacology, in the basic and clinical domains. The central focus of the journal is on research which advances understanding of existing and new neuropsychopharmacological agents, including their mode of action and clinical application, or which provides insights into the biological basis of neuropsychiatric disorders and thereby advances their pharmacological treatment. Such research might derive from the full spectrum of biological and psychological fields of inquiry, encompassing classical and novel techniques in neuropsychopharmacology, as well as strategies such as neuroimaging, genetics, psychoneuroendocrinology and neuropsychology. IJNP's rapid publication policy is facilitated by web-based submission and review, and the journal publishes the definitive versions of papers online, ahead of the printed issues. All papers are indexed in PubMed and Journal Citation Reports.

Visual Neuroscience

Editor-in-Chief

Laura J. Frishman | University of Houston, USA

Visual Neuroscience is an international journal devoted to the publication of high-quality reports of experimental and theoretical research in basic visual neuroscience.

A major goal of publication is to bring together in one journal a broad range of studies that reflect the diversity and originality of contemporary research on neural mechanisms of vision. Contributions deal with molecular, cellular and systems-level processes in both vertebrate and invertebrate species. Studies based exclusively on clinical, psychophysiological or behavioral data are included if they are designed to address questions concerning neural mechanisms of vision.

Nutrition Research Reviews

Editor-in-Chief

D. A. Bender | University College London, UK

Published on behalf of the Nutrition Society

Nutrition Research Reviews offers a comprehensive overview of nutritional science today. By distilling the latest research and linking it to established practice, the journal consistently delivers the widest range of in-depth articles in the field of nutritional science and has done so for the past nineteen years. It presents up-to-date, concise, critical reviews of key topics in nutrition science advancing new concepts and hypotheses that encourage the exchange of fundamental ideas on nutritional well-being in both humans and animals.

Economics and Philosophy

Editors

Giacomo Bonanno | University of California, Davis, USA

Luc Bovens | London School of Economics, UK

Bertil Tungodden | Norwegian School of Economics and Business, Norway

Peter Vallentyne | University of Missouri-Columbia, USA

The disciplines of economics and philosophy each possess their own special analytical methods, whose combination is powerful and fruitful. Each discipline can be enriched by the other. Economics and Philosophy aims to promote their mutual enrichment by publishing articles and book reviews in all areas linking these subjects. Topics include the methodology and epistemology of economics, the foundations of decision theory and game theory, the nature of rational choice in general, historical work on economics with a philosophical purpose, ethical issues in economics, the use of economic techniques in ethical theory, and many other subjects.

Philosophy

Editor

Anthony O'Hear | University of Buckingham, UK

Published for the Royal Institute of Philosophy

Philosophy is the journal of the Royal Institute of Philosophy, which was founded in 1925 to build bridges between specialist philosophers and a wider educated public. The journal continues to fulfil a dual role: it is one of the leading academic journals of philosophy, but it also serves the philosophical interests of specialists in other fields (law, language, literature and the arts, medicine, politics, religion, science, education, psychology, history) and those of the general reader. Contributors are required to avoid needless technicality of language and presentation. Each issue contains an editorial on a topic of philosophical or public interest, and a 'New Books' section. The institutional subscription includes two supplements. Recent contributors have included Michael Dummett, Noam Chomsky, Jurgen Habermas, David Wiggins and Mary Warnock.

Social Philosophy and Policy

Editor

Ellen Frankel Paul | Bowling Green State University, USA
Associate Editors

Fred D. Miller, Jr. | Bowling Green State University, USA
Jeffrey Paul | Bowling Green State University, USA

Published for The Social Philosophy and Policy Foundation

Social Philosophy and Policy is an interdisciplinary journal with an emphasis on the philosophical underpinnings of enduring social policy debates. The issues are thematic in format, examining a specific area of concern with contributions from scholars in different disciplines, especially philosophy, economics, political science and law. While not primarily a journal of policy prescriptions, some articles in each issue will typically connect theory with practice. The 2007 issues are Liberalism: Old and New and Ancient Greek Political Theory. The 2008 issues will be Objectivism, Subjectivism, and Relativism in Ethics and Freedom of Association.

Editor-in-Chief

Robert Koebner | Norwich, UK

Published on behalf of the National Institute for Agricultural Biotechnology (NIAB)

Plant Genetic Resources is an international journal that brings together the many diverse topics concerned with plant genetic resources. Each issue gives you access to peer-reviewed research papers on genetic variation in plants, both crop and non-crop, as well as on the technical, socio-economic, legal and geo-political aspects of PGR. Many papers feature research directed to endangered non-crop and medicinal plants. The journal is of interest to researchers and scientists involved in the plant genetic resources community, including: breeders, all those with an interest in germplasm, policy makers, consultants and research students.

Foreign Policy Bulletin

Editors

Jack Goldstone | George Mason University, USA
Managing Editor
Kevin J. Fandl | George Mason University, USA

Foreign Policy Bulletin is the leading source for the documentary record of American foreign policy. Unaffiliated with any government institution, this unique quarterly presents the major directives, speeches, official statements, and public reports from U.S. officials and government agencies; excerpts from Congressional debates; and relevant texts and reports from international organizations. FPB is the only publication that organizes and presents these key foreign policy texts arranged by topic. Starting in 2007, Foreign Policy Bulletin will also publish annual review essays, offering assessments and highlighting important changes in the past year's U.S. foreign policy. Subscribers have online access with advanced search capabilities for all current issues. Foreign Policy Bulletin is an essential research and policy tool that belongs in every library and on every foreign policy expert's bookshelf.

Journal of Public Policy

Editor

Richard Rose | University of Aberdeen, UK

Journal of Public Policy applies social science theories and concepts to significant political, economic and social issues and to the ways in which public policies are made. Its articles deal with topics of concern to public policy scholars in America, Europe, Japan and other advanced industrial nations. The journal often publishes articles that cut across disciplines, such as environmental issues, international political economy, regulatory policy and European Union processes. Its peer reviewers come from up to a dozen social science disciplines and countries across three continents, thus ensuring both analytic rigour and accuracy in reference to national and policy context.

Studies in American Political Development

Editors

Karen Orren | University of California, Los Angeles, USA
Stephen Skowronek | Yale University, USA

Studies in American Political Development (SAPD) publishes scholarship on political change and institutional development in the United States from a variety of theoretical viewpoints. Articles focus on governmental institutions over time and on their social, economic and cultural setting. In-depth presentation in a longer format allows contributors to elaborate on the complex patterns of state-society relations. SAPD encourages an interdisciplinary approach and recognizes the value of comparative perspectives.

The Review of Politics

Editor

Catherine Zuckert | University of Notre Dame, USA

Published for the University of Notre Dame

The Review of Politics publishes primarily philosophical and historical studies of politics, especially those concentrating on political theory and American political thought, but thoughtful scholarly reflections on all aspects of politics – including analysis of institutions and techniques, analysis of literary reflections on politics, political interpretations of literary works, and constitutional theory and analysis – are welcome. Some of the first essays advocating “realism” were published in The Review of Politics, as well as articles from its opponents in international relations; both perspectives are accepted parts of the journal’s coverage.

Behavioural and Cognitive Psychotherapy

Editor

Paul M. Salkovskis | Institute of Psychiatry, London, UK

Published for the British Association for Behavioural and Cognitive Psychotherapies

Behavioural and Cognitive Psychotherapy is an international multidisciplinary journal aimed primarily at members of the helping and teaching professions. Published five times annually, the journal features original research papers, covering both experimental and clinical work, that contribute to the theory, practice and evolution of cognitive and behaviour therapy. Under the guidance of an international editorial team, Behavioural and Cognitive Psychotherapy aims to reflect and influence the continuing changes in the concepts, methodology, and techniques of behavioural and cognitive psychotherapy. A particular feature of the journal is its broad ranging scope – both in terms of topics and types of study covered. Behavioural and Cognitive Psychotherapy encompasses most areas of human behaviour and experience, and represents many different research methods, from randomized controlled trials to detailed case studies. It also includes reviews of recently published literature in this field.

BioSocieties is an innovative new journal in the social sciences, dedicated to advancing analytic understanding of the social, ethical, legal, economic, public and policy aspects of current and emerging developments in the life sciences. These include genomics, neuroscience, psychopharmacology, biomedical and reproductive technologies, and bioterrorism.

As the first journal of its kind, BioSocieties publishes scholarship across the social science disciplines, and represents a lively and balanced array of perspectives on controversial issues. Confident in the constructive potential of interdisciplinary dialogue and debate across the social and natural sciences, BioSocieties aims to become the journal of choice not only for social scientists, but also for life scientists interested in the larger social, ethical and policy implications of their work. The journal is international in scope, spanning research and developments in all corners of the globe.

Articles, response pieces, book reviews, and self-standing editorial pieces by social and life scientists form a regular part of the journal.

Journal of Social Policy

Editor

Jan Pahl | University of Kent, UK

Emma Wincup | University of Leeds, UK

A Journal of the Social Policy Association

Journal of Social Policy carries high quality articles on all aspects of social policy in an international context. It places particular emphasis upon articles which seek to contribute to debates on the future direction of social policy, to present new empirical data, to advance theories, or to analyse issues in the making and implementation of social policies.

Journal of Social Policy is part of the 'Social Policy Package', which also includes Social Policy and Society and Social Policy Digest. An online resource, Social Policy Digest, was launched in 2003. The Digest provides a regularly up-dated, fully searchable, summary of policy developments and research findings across the whole range of social policy.

Social Policy and Society

Co-Editors

Peter Dwyer | The University of Leeds, UK

Sharon Wright | University of Stirling, UK

A Journal of the Social Policy Association

Social Policy and Society is an international journal sponsored by the UK Social Policy Association. Its intended audience includes social policy specialists and practitioners, although those within the other social science related fields, particularly sociology, politics and economics will find much of interest. It brings discussion of contemporary social policy issues to a wider audience and provides a valuable teaching and research resource to the worldwide social and public policy community. Each issue contains short refereed articles reflecting the topical social policy debates and issues and uniquely, a themed section, edited by a Guest Editor. Social Policy and Society is part of the 'Social Policy Package' – also including the Digest and the Journal of Social Policy.

Theatre Studies

New Theatre Quarterly

Editors

Maria Shevtsova | Goldsmiths College, University of London, UK

Simon Trussler | Rose Bruford College, UK

New Theatre Quarterly provides a vital international forum where theatrical scholarship and practice can meet and where prevailing dramatic assumptions can be subjected to vigorous critical questioning. It shows that theatre history has a contemporary relevance, that theatre studies need a methodology and that theatre criticism needs a language. The journal publishes news, analysis and debate within the field of theatre studies.

Theatre Research International

Senior Editor

Freddie Rokem | University of Tel Aviv, Israel

Associate Editor

Elaine Aston | Lancaster University, UK

Published for the International Federation for Theatre Research

Theatre Research International publishes articles on theatre practices from all continents in their social, cultural, and historical contexts, their relationship to other media of representation, and to other fields of inquiry. The journal seeks to reflect the evolving diversity of existing as well as emerging critical idioms prevalent in the scholarship of differing world contexts. The 2007 volume will include a special focus issue on creative processes in the theatre.

Theatre Survey

Editor

Martin Puchner | Columbia University, USA

Published for the American Society for Theatre Research

Theatre Survey is chartered by the American Society for Theatre Research as a theatre history journal.

Published twice a year, Theatre Survey provides rigorous historical and theoretical studies of performance across all periods, cultures, and methodologies; letters to the Editor; book reviews; lists of books received; and essays on new theatrical resources and exhibits. Recent issues have included position-pieces on theatre history and historiography in the New Millennium; and the subjects of other articles have ranged from postmodern Shakespearean production (on stage and in film) to the Kabuki theater; from medieval performance to the New Orleans Mardi Gras; and from issues of race, class, gender, and colonialism in performance to studies of John Rich's Covent Garden account books.

— Ordering Information

The publications listed in this catalogue may be ordered from your subscription agent or directly from the appropriate Cambridge University Press contact as listed.

— Prices

Prices are effective for 2007 volumes, unless otherwise specified, and are subject to change without notice. Subscriptions are available for 'bundled' and online-only and print-only as indicated in the catalogue. Please note that reduced rate subscriptions do not give online access unless specified. Prices for single parts are available on request.

— Electronic Site Licenses

For queries on any aspect of electronic, single and multi site licenses, in North America please contact Andrea Cernichiari (Tel: +1 212 337 5022. Email: acernichiari@cambridge.org) or elsewhere, Lesley Boyle (Tel: +44 1223 325535. Email: lboyle@cambridge.org).

— European Union

Subscribers in the EU should note that we must charge VAT (TVA, BTW, MOMS, MWST, FPA, TAV, IVA) at the appropriate rate. Any subscribers registered for VAT should quote their registration number. Ours is GB 823 8476 09.

— Canada

Subscribers in Canada should note that we must charge GST.

— Individual Subscriptions

Certain journals have reduced rates for individuals, members of affiliated societies or students. Individuals wishing to take advantage of these rates must certify that the subscription is for personal use only, order directly from Cambridge University Press, and prepay by personal cheque or credit card. Students must provide verification of enrolment, such as a photocopy of a student ID card or letter from a tutor. We regret that these concessionary rates do not apply through agents or booksellers.

— Despatch

The subscription price quoted includes delivery by air where appropriate.

— Change of Address

It is very important to notify Cambridge University Press promptly should your mailing address change or if there is an error in our labelling. Please give four weeks' advance notice and be sure to include the journal title and your former mailing address as well as the new address. Please quote your customer number or include your complete mailing label with any correspondence.

— Claims and Cancellations Policy

Claims for non-receipt of issues should be made within six months of the publication date, or upon receipt of the next issue, whichever is the sooner. Please note that, while every effort is made to maintain the advertised publication schedule, it may sometimes not be possible to despatch an issue in the month for which it had been advertised. No refunds of subscriptions will be made after the first issue of the year has been despatched.

— Back Volumes

Prices for back volumes (subject to availability) are provided upon request. Please contact the appropriate Cambridge University Press office for further details. In certain cases, other suppliers provide back volumes.

— Course Adoption and Special Sales

Frequently a Cambridge journal issue, such as a topical special issue or a general survey issue, is particularly suited for course adoption. Whenever possible, Cambridge University Press will offer substantial discounts on bulk purchases for course adoption and for promotional purposes. Please contact the appropriate Cambridge University Press office for further information.

— Sample Copies and Brochures

Free sample copies are gladly supplied to librarians, subject to availability, for journals with three or more issues per year. Brochures giving more information are also available upon request. Contact the Cambridge or New York offices for further details. For most journals, a free sample issue is available online. Visit www.journals.cambridge.org/subjects
